

 Search for articles...All Collections > FundedNext Features > FundedNext Traders' Competition >During the competition, am I allowed to trade during news events?

During the competition, am I allowed to trade during news events?

Updated over 2 weeks ago

Absolutely! Traders are allowed to trade during news events throughout the Competition, granting them the flexibility to engage in the market during significant economic announcements, press releases, and other market-moving events.

However, it's crucial to exercise caution and implement proper risk management strategies when trading during news events. Market volatility can escalate significantly during these periods, amplifying the level of risk involved. Therefore, it's essential to remain informed about upcoming news releases, evaluate their potential impact on the market, and adjust your trading strategy accordingly.

---

Related Articles

Is News Trading allowed at FundedNext?Is News Trading allowed in the Stellar 1-Step Account?Is News Trading allowed in the Stellar 2-Step Account?Is News Trading allowed in the Evaluation Account?What is slippage? Understanding Slippage in Trading

Did this answer your question?

support@fundednext.com