Can I hold my positions Overnight/Weekend?

Updated over 2 weeks ago

Fundednext allows traders to hold their trades overnight and over the weekends without any restrictions in the Evaluation, Stellar Lite, Stellar, and Express Non-Consistency Challenges.

However, for the Express Consistency Challenge, traders are allowed to hold their trades overnight, but it is prohibited to keep positions open over the weekend. All trades must be closed at least 15 minutes before the market closes on weekends. It is important to note that if trades are not closed within the specified timeframe, the system will automatically close them. It is important to note that failing to close trades before the weekend close will not be counted as a violation.

Important Note: Traders are permitted to hold positions overnight and over the weekend with both your Challenge and FundedNext Accounts. However, swap charges will apply to these positions and will count toward your daily loss calculation.

To find more details on swap rates, right-click on the trading pair and select the "Specification" section, where you can see additional charges or conditions. Please note that swap charges are applied at a fixed rate of three times (3x) for all assets. The specific day this charge is applied depends on the asset class. Forex and commodities swaps are charged triple on Wednesdays, while indices and cryptocurrency swaps are charged triple on Fridays.

Please refer to the image below for details about the Weekend & Overnight Holding of our Challenges:

Account Model	Weekend Holding	Overnight Holding
Evaluation	Allowed	Allowed
Stellar 1-Step & 2-Step	Allowed	Allowed
Stellar Lite	Allowed	Allowed
Express Non-Consistency	Allowed	Allowed
Express Consistency	Not Allowed	Allowed

Why is weekend holding not available on the Express Consistency Account?

The reason is that the Express Consistency Account adheres to the Consistency Rule, which involves comparing the consistency value with the previous week's total trade number, total trading days, and total lot traded. In order to accurately calculate the consistency value, all trades must be closed before the market closes on weekends. This requirement ensures precise calculations and is a significant factor in prohibiting the holding of positions over the weekend.
