What is the minimum payout limit for FundedNext?

Updated this week

The minimum payout limit for FundedNext is determined based on the payout amount and your desired available payout methods.

- If the payout amount is below $20, you will not be able to place a payout request for that cycle. The amount will be carried forward and adjusted with the next payout.
- If the payout amount is $20 or more, you can request your payout through USDT (TRC20).
- For RiseWorks payouts, the minimum payout amount is $50.
- If the payout amount is $20 or more, you can request your payout through TC Pay, exclusively available for our Iranian clients. The highest payout amount for TC Pay is $5,000.

How does the adjustment of outstanding profit work (if the account is breached)?

If you have a withdrawable profit below $20 in your account but breach it in the next trading cycle, the outstanding profit from the last trading cycle will be adjusted and processed. This allows you to receive your accumulated earnings. To initiate the adjustment, you can contact the FundedNext Support Team, who will assist in processing the payout.

Please note that these policies are subject to change, and the latest information can be found on our website.

Is there a processing fee for payout requests?

Yes, a processing fee is applied to all payout requests to cover the transaction costs and associated charges incurred during the payout process. Here's how it works:

- For payouts processed through RiseWork, a processing fee of up to 3% is applied.
- For payouts using other methods, a processing fee of up to 3% is also applied.

The fee is determined by the payment provider and remains consistent, regardless of the payout amount—whether you're requesting $100 or $10,000. The exact fee may vary based on the payout method selected, the payment provider's terms, and prevailing market conditions. Please note that no additional charges are added to your payout request.
