

 Search for articles...All Collections > General FAQ > Account Information >Do I have to follow the Daily Loss Limit & Overall Loss Limit in the FundedNext account?

Do I have to follow the Daily Loss Limit & Overall Loss Limit in the FundedNext account?

Updated over 2 weeks ago

Traders are required to follow the Daily Loss Limit and Overall Loss Limit rules while trading in the FundedNext account.

The Daily Loss Limit restricts the maximum amount of losses that can be incurred in a single day, while the Overall Loss Limit sets a cap on the total accumulated losses over a specific period.

By following these rules, traders can maintain risk control and prevent excessive losses.

Related Articles

What is the Maximum Daily Loss Limit?What happens if my FundedNext Account is in profit but I hit the Daily Loss Limit?When does the Daily Loss Limit reset with FundedNext?What are Today's Permitted Loss Limit and Maximum Permitted Loss Limit?Daily Loss Limit vs. Overall Loss Limit

Did this answer your question?

support@fundednext.com